LITTLE MARY'S CHRISTMAS GIFT

BY ONA F. LATHROP

SOMETIMES I wonder about this young generation coming up. They have such big ideas, and they want to start in where we left off, instead of at the bottom as we did. And yet they know what true love is. Little Mary's Chirstmas gift proved thati George and I didn't get married until we had the down payment on a home, and we had a proper engagement and wedding, with rings for each and all the other traditionals. But nowa-davs-Our Little Mary fell madly in love her last year in high-school. She talked us out of college and into letting her marry that crazy Bill Fenton at the age of eighteen. He'd found a job—of sorts. Little Mary didn't want a big wedding. No, no, she'd be married in a suit at the J. P.'s. All my dreams of chantilly lace over satin with my own long veil for her, and the brides-maids in pastel colors went glimmering. But I didn't say a word.

They moved into our little garden guest-house but insisted on paying rent, even though George secretly salts it away in an emergency fund for them. And Bill never did give Little Mary a ring. At the time, she didn't seem to mind.

"Who wants a silly old ring? Bill and I would rather have a dog." So they bought "The Grey Ghost,' a very expensive Weimaraner, instead of an engagement or wedding ring. They paid so much a month, as they did on all their furniture. And now that they have little Marietta they don't pay much attention to him, George shakes his head. "All friends were throwing big weddings, she'd look a trifle wistful and say, 'Maybe I was a little hasty, but I don't care. Bill says he'll buy me a ring as soon as he gets on his feet. Bill has big ideas. He's going to buy into the business as soon as we get the car and furniture paid for." George just guffawed when I told him that. "Thinks he's going to be a big shot any day now, shi Oh well, they'll come out all right."

It was Morry Young who gave away the secret. He's the leweler in our town, and when Littie Many went in to make a payment on their silver, he winked knowingly and said, "Somebody's going to get a pretty fine Christmas gift." Little Mary teased but he wouldn't tell her more. "Can't eay another word," he grinned. "Just that a young man I know is making payments every month now on son mighty fine."

Little Mary came home but bling. "Oh Mom, Till bet Bill is giving me a dia ring for Christman Morry says—" and there were stars in her eyes, and I knew their how

As the gifts were distributed, we held our breath. As consilert, George, playing Santa pulled out the big box and placed it in Mary's lap. "As it I still the know," she guspel smilling across at BID, who should "Go on, open it up."

Little Mary united the large bow with shaking impers. She littled the Md singerty, expecting to repeat the process. But in stead a cotten-wrapped mon-stroity knowed up. Quickly she tare away the option.

"But Bill! Oh Bill!" she mountd and draw forth a thirty-ers-one silver percolator. Sometime is dign't look like a disease in the st process one has been directly than the state of the state of

HANCOCK MEN ARRESTED IN RAID ON STILL

Two Hancock County men were scheduled to appear before U.S. Commissioner Verta Lee Swetman Monday at Biloxi for preliminary nearing on charges of illegally producing whisky.

The two men were identified by Gulfport agents of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division as Edward (Eddie) Shiyou and Alton O. Cuevas, both of the Fenton com-They were arrested early Saturday when they arrived at the site of a still and began unloading jugs and butane tanks from a pickup truck, the agents said. The agents had taken up positions during the early morning hours to observe the still and await operators to appear.

Siezed and destroyed by dynamite were a 130-gallon pot still, 20 55-gallon drum fermenters, 1,000 gallons of whisky mash and other equipment. A confiscated truck will be disposed of under procedures set forth by the Internal Revenue Service, the agents

VEHICLES INSPECTION BEGINS JANUARY 1ST.

Commissioner of Public Safety T. B. Birdsong states the annual motor vehicle inspection will begin January 1, 1966 and urges all owners to take note and have their vehicles in shape for this 1966 inspection. Birdsong states that the 1966 inspection will include brakes, lights, steering, tires, windshield wipers on the driver's side, HORN and GLASS.

The tickers for 1966 will be gold with black boarder and lettering. The inspection fee is $1.25, plus any repairs that may be necessary for the vehicle to pass inspection.

There are 1300 privately owned garages and repair shops in Mississippi authorized as inpection stations and all motorists are urged during the three-month inspection period beginning January 1 and ending March 31, 1966.

It is impossible to over-stress the importance of the annual inspec tion. Its value to drivers is life saving. By insuring the mechanical condition of the vehicles that use our roads, it contributes substantially to the traffic safety of all motorists.

The Inspection Law since its passage has resulted in major improvement of mechanical condition of all motor vehicles traveling Mississippi highways.
